Agilent CrossLab Relocation Services

Reduce the stress of your move and quickly restore your lab to full operation

Whether you need to relocate a single instrument or your entire lab, choosing Agilent should be the first move you make.

For starters, you'll have a single point of contact from start to finish, so you'll eliminate the hassles of multiple vendors and schedules. You'll also avoid costly mistakes and unexpected downtime. That's because our highly trained personnel have experience working with Agilent and non-Agilent systems, so all your equipment will receive the care and consideration you deserve.

And when we say all equipment, we mean more than just analytical instruments. We also move balances, titrators, glassware, refrigerators, freezers, samples, standards, reagents, office furniture, and much more.

Put 40 years of hands-on experience behind your move, visit us at www.agilent.com/chem/relocation-services

Our experienced personnel handle every aspect of your move—and provide knowledgeable insights on:

- Relocation planning and documentation
- Layout consultation for your new site
- Deinstallation, reinstallation, and performance verification
- Instrument requalification and compliance testing
- Inventory management
- Post-move documentation
