Agilent will combine state-of-the-art technology with financing options that put you on the competitive fast track—and keep you there.

Let us help you acquire what you need for your lab with a payment plan that matches the useful life of the instrument to its analytical purpose. Agilent’s lease and financing program puts you on a path to regularly upgrade instruments, giving you higher productivity at a lower cost than you might expect, conserving capital for other critical business needs.

Skip the big capital expense. Skip the high cost of waiting to get your new instrument up and running. Choose a lease that starts when your new instrument does.

Even better, you can bundle systems, software, services, supplies—everything your lab needs—into a single, predictable monthly payment.

Consider these benefits of leasing over a cash purchase:

- Low to no initial cash outlay
  100% financing available for qualified customers.

- Adjust payments to accommodate your budgeting and qualification needs
  Deferred, stepped up, stepped down, skipped, seasonal, and so on.

- Avoid technological obsolescence
  Maintain a cost and production advantage over the competition by implementing a state-of-the-art technology upgrade path.
Flexible financing options are just a part of what we provide to make your transition to new technology smooth and productive. We also offer:

- Laboratory business intelligence
- Instrument trade-in and buyback
- Technology refresh services
- Compliance services
- Education training

CrossLab is an Agilent capability that integrates services, consumables, and lab-wide resource management to help you improve efficiency, optimize operations, increase instrument uptime, develop user skills, and more.
